communication, and openness to learning. These benevolent beings are present and willing to help. We can approach this with maturity rather than aggression. Open arms do not mean abandoning good judgment. They mean refusing to let fear make every decision for us.

The most important contact, however, is the contact we make with one another. We cannot ask for guidance from the stars while ignoring the suffering in our communities. We cannot claim to be awakening while continuing to exploit Earth or dehumanize people who look, vote, pray, or live differently from us. Turning toward the light must become more than an idea. It must be expressed through honesty, responsibility, kindness, and courageous action.

The future is not a fixed destination waiting for us. It is being shaped now in laboratories, classrooms, elections, farms, homes, boardrooms, and spiritual conversations. Every new technology presents a choice. Every climate warning is an invitation to respond. Every moment of awakening gives us another opportunity to act from wisdom instead of fear. It is time to move beyond the control of the wealthy who lead you into war against each other. War has never worked and never will. It is time to wake up.

If we pay attention to what is happening right now, we can still change the destructive path we have followed. We can choose restoration over exploitation, cooperation over domination, truth over manipulation, and peace over endless conflict. The years ahead could shake humanity awake, but awakening is not punishment. It is possibility.

We are standing at a threshold. Beyond it is not a perfect world, but it's a world we can finally begin to heal. If we meet change with clear eyes, open hearts, and a shared determination to protect life, the future can become more than something we survive. It can become something we consciously create.

The Group of 9 is now complete with Lilith coming forward. They and many of our parental races are here to help in this shift, but they can do nothing until we make the move ourselves. All we need to do is to look at the ways we are alike instead of the ways we are different and to hold hands as we walk through these times of change. The next move is ours. Big hugs and gentle nudges.

Choice Points and Turning Points

The Lion People Through Ellyn Dye

A new era has begun, and now it's up to you to start creating the life that you want, collectively and individually. No pressure, right? Take a deep breath, reassess, and prioritize. Humanity has turned the corner, and there's no going back, no matter how nostalgic you might be for the old ways of doing and being. Those old ways no longer work. Everything that was hidden has been — or is being — revealed.

Corruption is being rooted out. People around the world are finally remembering who they really are. They are stepping in to their power and taking their world back, slowly but surely. There is much excitement across the universe, and much assistance is offered.

The old paradigm of greed, consolidation of wealth, and control through fear are falling away as the vibration of humanity rises, and everything built on those foundations will crumble. After centuries of power, they are no longer sustainable. The controllers will be revealed, and the lies, corruption, and fear-mongering will become more transparent. Anyone who continues trying to operate using the old ways — individually, nationally, and globally — will fail.

Granted, this seemingly endless process of revealing and crumbling has been exceedingly difficult and challenging to experience, especially for those of you with limited resources. But humanity collectively decided to move through this Great Shift of the ages in physical form, and everyone knew on a soul level what would likely be involved. Not only did you all volunteer, but many were turned away because of a lack of qualifications in terms of the severity of challenges.

The old is clearing away, and the new will be built on a foundation of love, collaboration, and the highest good of all. Integrity and authenticity, especially in leadership at all levels, will be required and easy to identify. Many people are already in place to bring through new technologies, innovations, and humanitarian organizations to level the playing field, redistribute stolen wealth, provide the basics for all humanity, make life easier, and support more creative and fulfilling expressions.

Darkness Comes Before the Dawn

These early moments of the New Age might still seem somewhat dark, but it is the darkness before the glorious dawn. A blanket of darkness still covers the world, but the birds are singing the Sun awake for its slow but shining rise above the horizon.

Humanity is in the "mother" of all major kitchen remodels and has reached that point of demolition and chaos when it seems the beautiful new kitchen will never appear. The cabinets are off the walls, the counter has been removed, the sink is disconnected, the flooring has been ripped up, kitchen items are piled all over the dining table, and dust and dirt are everywhere. You, the homeowner, want to pull your hair out, but the plans show how beautiful the kitchen will be, so don't plan a dinner party for twelve people just yet. Order take-out for a while longer, and have patience.

All other manner of challenges and problems will continue in this coming year, but as humanity's vibration rises, these problems will fade as new, brilliant, and life-enhancing technologies and innovations come faster than anyone can keep up.

The massive cleanup of this remodel will include sweeping out the last holdouts from the old paradigm, such as leaders who should have passed their torches years ago, dictators and authoritarians too long in love with their power, corrupt officials who care only for themselves, corporations unconcerned with the well-being of their consumers and workers, medical and pharmaceutical practices that create lifelong customers rather than real cures for diseases, and a banking system severely slanted toward consolidation of wealth for the few.

Take Back Your Power to Create a New World

With the New Age just starting and the planets aligning to throw their powerfully transformative energies into assisting with the process, the New World will not be handed to anyone on a silver platter. You will all have to change to create the world you crave and deserve and overcome centuries of programming to awaken to who you really are: divine, powerful beings pretending to be separate and human. You must shake off decades of apathy, powerlessness, and victimhood, and step in to your power and use it.

You will each have to take an active role in the process, and as you do so, you will more and more discover your immense power. You have the power to severely injure callous corporations through boycotts. You have the power to direct public policy through your votes and by monitoring and commenting on the actions of elected leaders. You have the power to create the changes you want through your very numbers — if you only stop fighting each other over artificially highlighted differences and then join together and work for the common good.

Those in power have spent decades (if not centuries) learning how to divide you, the people, and pit you against each other to prevent you from joining together and turning on them. It's time for you all to see through this manipulation and to do exactly what those in power have always known — and feared — would come.

The Future Is in Your Hands

The coming decades of amazing new creations start this year, and the atmosphere is ripe for change. Grab it with both hands. Work with others to create something magical and beautiful for yourself and for others.

Start with yourself: Learn to truly love yourself. Be authentic and live in integrity. Simplify and slow down. Rest and give yourself room to breathe. Put down your prejudices and judgments about others who look, act, or think differently from you. Assess what is truly important in your life right now, and prioritize it. Discover who you are now. Seek joy, fulfillment, and creative expression. Step away from toxic situations and people. Step in to your power, and choose to use it. Recognize that becoming powerful and wielding power brings responsibility and accountability for your actions. Step up.

Focus on what you can control and where you can take action. Be prepared for the unexpected, but let go of the past habits of constant worry and rumination. Live in the moment rather than rehash the past or project your concerns into future worst-case scenarios that will likely never happen.

Create community: The Aquarian Age highlights people and community. Collaboration and cooperation will replace toxic competition as people work together to create the new. Recognize that everyone has something important and new to bring to the table. Putting down the burden of controlling everything in favor of working together might feel awkward or difficult at first, but it will bring relief and better results.

Hold leaders accountable: Pay attention to the actions of elected leaders and heads of organizations and corporations, especially those whose decisions have an impact on people's well-being. Hold them accountable, and demand policies, products, and actions that support the common good.

Do what you can when you feel drawn to act: Each of you on the planet has something unique to contribute to the whole. Do you know yet what you came here to contribute? If not, enjoy a new journey of self-discovery. Find your strengths and embrace your weaknesses. Quite often, that "flaw" you identified turns out to be your greatest gift.

This year, and from now on, it's up to you. The training wheels have finally come off, and it's your turn to ride on your own. There is no more sitting on the sidelines, waiting for someone to come and change things. No longer can you feel helpless, hopeless, and victimized. Even if the ETs finally make their presence known this year, they won't save humanity from themselves.

You got this. Humanity is truly at a turning point, a choice point. You will create the life you want — heaven on Earth — one choice at a time. Always choose love.

Bring Light into Darkness

Collective Soul Consciousness Through Carolyn Gervais

Maybe you can already sense it: The energy of 2027 is beginning to merge and blend with the collective consciousness of humanity.

2026 has been an extremely difficult year for many across the planet. You awakened souls have especially felt the weight of the old energy dynamic of self-serving greed and blatant disregard for the dignity of human life. It is understandable that you want to be done with that old energy, but know it is only an energy illusion made real through the fear-based beliefs of ignorance and unawareness.

Fear can block light in the mind and heart so that darkness seems to take over. This perception of darkness has blocked the light and love of the new energy for a very long time while many fearful, lost, and unaware people greedily use the cloak of the old energy's darkness to take what they have not earned.

Darkness is about selfishness, greed, hate, lying, cheating, and revenge. Awakened ones like you have nothing to fear, for you are increasingly in the light as the energy of the new year washes over you. Physical manifestations of this show up as. Those who cling to the attributes of self-enrichment and divisiveness are soundly rejected.

Being in the light comes from the inner self through deep, honest soul-searching. Being in or even believing in the light of your higher self and soul means your heart and mind are open to a higher inner energy source, which is unconditional love. That is who you truly are. As a lightworker, you bring your loving heart and ability to concentrate on the beauty of love as life. Bringing light into darkness is the gift you give to Earth.

Eleven Raises Spiritual Awareness

The sum of the year's numerals (2 + 0 + 2 + 7) is 11, so don't be surprised if you begin seeing 11/11 on your clocks more often than before. Eleven is a master number known as the "spiritual messenger." It brings illumination in the form of inspiration and guidance. This vibration is already raising spiritual awareness and giving insightful messages to those who ask for and are open to new revelations born of new experiences. These messages will come through the forms of dreams, prayers, meditations, contemplations, and personal interactions.

2027 will inspire changing what can be changed and helping to make the world a better place to live. On a global scale, 11 energy has to do with justice for all, which brings into play the energies of liberation, balance, and impartiality. Those of you who are ready to vibrate with this master number can be inspirational leaders who draw on cosmic knowledge through your intuitive abilities.

Thrive, Don't Just Survive

The energy of 2027 is about weighing the outcomes of present conditions and balancing them by overcoming the mistakes of the past — first in the self and then through interactions with others. This will be another year to eliminate toxins from the body, mind, and world. Think about moving out of relationships that have been toxic for too long — no matter what has been done to make these situations more bearable — in the most harmless and harmonious ways possible.

During the influence of 2027, free-flowing subconscious messages might be plentiful if you have inner knowledge of the real meaning behind events that seem mysterious or scary to the conscious mind. This is a good time to tune in to your deeper intuition and contemplate what the experiences in your life tell you to focus on so that you can thrive in and not just survive this chaotic and unsettling time on Earth.

Remember that your spiritual entourage is always with you to help you find peace, love, and the understanding you are ready to receive. You have nothing to fear but fear, so let go. Live your life fully with your heart and soul lights shining brightly. Look for the miracles in your life, and know that more are coming in 2027.
